Nicholas Zustak

Fitness Planner - Alpha Release

Though most features haven't been implemented, the core on which all other features will be based on has been implemented. The plist for the type of workouts is done; it just needs to be editable and persist. The ability to check off completed workout sets is done, the progress bar just needs to be properly drawn again. The other features, such as stopwatch and webview, can be easily implemented using notes from class.

It's 2:00AM and I'm very sick. This will have to do.